SPECIAL TOPICS IN TRAUMA CARE 2013 CONFERENCE October 15 – 16, 2013

OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of the Conference, participants should be able to:

- Analyze challenging aspects of trauma and critical care, including prognosticating outcome from traumatic brain injury, airway management, preventing antibiotic resistant infection, sepsis, necrotizing soft-tissue infection, caring for patients with substance abuse issues and managing respiratory failure caused by severe lung injury.
- Develop a plan of care appropriate for a trauma patient with a thoracic injury, a spinal cord injury, an abdominal injury, compartment syndrome, or venous thromboembolism.
- Explain unique aspects of providing care to trauma patients undergoing extremity reconstruction, in a mass casualty blast incidence, in a wartime environment or during air transport.
- Discuss current and future recommendations related to catheter-based therapy for injury management.
- Describe interventions that foster leadership development.
- List strategies to effectively deal with gangs in the workplace.
- State how integrative therapies and rehabilitation can foster healing of trauma patients.

HIGHLIGHTS INCLUDE BREAKOUT TRACKS

- Special Care for Specific Injuries, Populations and Complications
- Challenges in Trauma Care
- Advanced Technology and Care of the Critically Ill Trauma Patient

RECOMMENDED AUDIENCE

This program will be of academic and professional interest to Resuscitation, Perioperative, Critical Care, Intermediate Care, and Medical-Surgical nurses; pre-hospital personnel (EMTs / Paramedics); Advanced Practice Nurses; Allied Health Professionals and Physicians.

GOAL

This conference will provide relevant evidence-based information and stimulate discussion about new and innovative advances in the fields of trauma and critical care. This conference is designed to meet the learning needs of all disciplines involved in the care of the trauma/critical care patient.
